

Died, on the 18th day of April, 1910, Frank Hyde, Jr., son of Frank and Mary J. Hyde and only brother of W. S. Hyde, formerly of Hannaford. Many readers of the Courier will remember Frank Hyde, who for some time was clerk at the Palace hotel, when McDonald owned it. From there he went to Fargo and then to many states in the west in search of health. The last seven years he lived at Salt Lake City but met death by drowning in the Ogden river, and was buried at Salt Lake April 20.
