

Knut Kalvik, an old settler living in Broadview Twp., died very very suddenly Tuesday morning from heart failure. He was sitting down by the stove reading his mail when he expired. The hired man had brought the mail in from the mail box a few minutes previously. When he was discovered huddled up by the stove Dr. Almklov was immediately telephoned for but of course could do nothing as Mr. Kalvik was dead before the doctor was called. The deceased was about 63 years old.
