

Russell A. More, brother of the More Bros., prominent business men of Wimbledon, was instantly killed last week at Fargo by the collapsing of a grain building. The upper floor of the building contained corn and it gave way carrying other floors beneath it right through to the basement. Carl Tuskind, another occupant of the building, was also killed at the same time.