

A. Erlandson living a mile north of town died Saturday morning of heart disease. Everything that loving hands and medical treatment could do was done for him. Mr Erlandson came from Norway about two years ago, and filed on a 40 acre homestead north of town. He was a mason by profession and was just through laying the foundation for the Lutheran church when he was taken sick. Funeral services were held Monday morning Rev. Dybrig officiating. He leaves four children to mourn his loss.
