

Word was brought to town about 4 o'clock that Martin Markuson, who was at work in a field near town, had a choking spell and was dying. Before help could be obtained he was dead, the coroner was summoned and after examination announced that death was caused by a hemorrhage. The remains were taken to Mr. Olson's house where the funeral sermon was preached at six o'clock Saturday morning, after which the body was taken to his old home in Minnesota for burial. His two brothers James and Nels accompanied the corpse. The deceased was well known in this vicinity and the sympathy of the entire community is with the bereaved friends and relatives who are left behind to mourn his loss.
