

---

—The school bell now chimes forth its silvery cadences every evening at 7:30 o'clock, to remind some of the scholars in the high room of the promise they gave Prof. Marsh—that they would devote an hour each evening to study.

---