

—William Mitchell, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, died very suddenly of heart trouble, on Tuesday, the 11th, at his home in Bismarck. He was feeling quite well and hearty until within a few minutes of his death. He was an honest and upright man, and in his demise North Dakota loses one of her most illustrious citizens, and also one of her brightest educators.