

MABEL RUDLER DEAD

The death of little Mabel Rudler, the eleven year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Rudler, occurred last Monday morning a few minutes before six o'clock. The immediate cause of her death was diphtheria. Mabel's condition was not generally regarded as so serious until the day before her death, and the news came as a severe shock to the community. Mabel was a good girl, of an affectionate disposition. She was popular among her school mates by whom she will be sorely missed. Mr. Rudler arrived from Minneapolis Sunday evening just in time to be with his daughter the last night of her life on earth. "Good-bye, Papa," were her last words, spoken a few minutes before her death.

Owing to the nature of the fatal malady there was no public funeral. Only the father and pastor followed the little body to the cemetery, where, with a brief service read by Rev. Cavin, it was sorrowfully laid away.
