

DEATH OF ROSA RUDLER

Misfortune has surely overtaken the Rudlers. A second daughter, Rosa, died last Friday, November 24, 1899. Her demise was unexpected. She appeared to be steadily improving until Friday afternoon, when she was seized with a sudden fit of choking and died sitting up before the doctor could be summoned.

Rosa was born December 24, 1882. She was therefore sixteen years and eleven months old at the time of her death. She was a probationary member of the M. E. Church.

One More, the Last.

As we go to press late this Thursday afternoon we learn of the death of Linnie, the last of the Rudler daughters. We are not in possession of particulars. Like the others Linnie was believed to be recovering. The news is heart sickening. What lurking deadly mystery is there that so baffles science and the physician's skill? For the stricken parents we can offer little consolation. Words are a mockery before a grief so terrible as theirs.
