

Anton Olsen, a well to do farmer living a short distance from Leal, was taken to Valley City, Tuesday, to be examined as to his sanity. He has been acting strangely of late, and on Sunday wandered away from his farm. He was met by an acquaintance from Wimbleton late Sunday evening at least 15 miles from home. The gentleman says he showed no signs of insanity and told him he was looking for a stray horse. He did not return home Sunday evening, and his wife and neighbors were much alarmed as to his safety. Monday evening he returned in a demented condition and it was thought best to place him in the hospital at Jamestown at once. It is sincerely hoped that he is only temporarily deranged and that he will soon return to his wife and family entirely recovered.
