Runaways are in fashion now, but F. P. Young's automobile refused to run at all on Friday and Mr. Young and John and Martin Nelson who were 4 miles out on a goose hunt had to walk in, arriving after dark. The trouble was caused by a broken link in the drive chain which could not be repaired until they had come to town for the tools, which are usually at home when needed.

Turner Moore and A. F. Mayer of Wimbledon started home from here about 7 o'clock Sunday evening. Just as they were leaving town, their team belonging to D. B. Berlin became unmanageable and ran away. The buggy was overturned; the boys thrown out and the top torn off. Turner sustained some injuries about the face but Mr. Mayer was uninjured. The team headed for Wimbledon but became entangled in a wire fence near J. J. Bacon's where he found them shortly afterward. Fortunately for the boys, the passenger trains met here and as the local failed to get on the siding soon enough for the Flyer to pass in safety it was compelled to stop and they boarded it for home.
