

letter day in Kensal, when it was decided by a vote of 66 to 1 that Kensal shall hereafter be an incorporated village and entitled to the benefits and privileges designated to the villages of North Dakota. A complete set of officers will be elected to conduct the affairs of the village on May 5th.

L. C. Lane is out with a prospectus and plans for incorporating a telephone company to take over the present system, extend the rural lines and there is some talk of building a toll line to Carrington to connect with the Independent Telephone Co.'s lines.

The Soo line has again put on a third passenger train, thus giving Kensal three trains each way a day. Only one of them will be a local, the other two making only a few stops between here and the cities. However, all trains stop at Kensal.

Farmer Jim Smith shipped a car of farm implements and household goods to Canada this week where he has taken up a homestead.

The Courtenay Dramatic company rendered a humorous play, "What Became of Parker," Saturday night to an appreciative audience. The performance was exceptionally good for amateurs.