

There was quite a wrestling bout at the town hall on Saturday evening and several of the "sports" in and around town engaged in some friendly contests and some of them displayed rare skill as wrestlers. Fred G. Hohenhouse was the star of the evening and was pitted against Will Bond but Mr. Bond did not participate on account of sickness and George Roan was induced to take his place. Mr. Roan is not so slow as he might be and he and Mr. Hohenhouse seemed to be pretty evenly matched. Dick Posey and Mr. Hohenhouse also took hold of each other and after doing their best for half an hour gave it up without a fall. F. G. Ellis was referee and M. J. O'Connor was time keeper. There will be another contest on Saturday evening when Mr. Posey and Mr. Hohenhouse will go on the mat again and decide the match.
