

Syvertson Bros have sold their large brick store building to the Courtenay Mercantile Co. and will give possession about the first of January. In the meantime they will close out their large stock of clothing and dry goods and get ready to go west some time during the winter. C. J. Syvertson expects to leave in a day or two for the west to look up a location far away from the chilling blasts of a North Dakota winter. The boys have not been in good health for some time and this is their reason for disposing of their property here and moving to a warmer climate where they can be out of doors all the year round.
