

Quarantine has been lifted from the home of H. N. Tucker and the family are all at home and allowed the privilege of mingling with their neighbors. Madeline has entirely recovered from her attack of scarlet fever, much to the delight of her many friends in town.