

Jimmie Crawford is carrying his left arm in a sling as a result of an accident which happened to him while plowing. He was thrown from the seat of a plow on which he was riding, his horses having become scared of a badger, sustaining a severe sprain to his elbow and dislocating one of the bones though luckily none were broken. It will be several weeks before he can again use the injured member.