

JIM LAKE AND VICINITY

The W. H. Bingham threshing crew resumed work Tuesday morning after laying off several days on account of inclement weather.

Miss Irene Meyers entertained Miss Margaret Jackman Sunday at the H. A. Hammerstedt home.

Mr. Councilman attended the M. E. Conference at Glenfield last week and reports good work there and a good attendance.

Herman Hammerstedt transacted business in Courtenay last Saturday.

C. D. Wood dug 75 bushels of fine potatoes from a quarter of an acre of North Dakota soil last Saturday, some of them weighing four pounds apiece. How is that for a poor crop?

Those who were in attendance at C. D. Wood's home Sunday enjoyed green peas and green corn fresh from the garden. This is a little unusual but true nevertheless.

Frank Schlect and bride are nicely located in a snug little home on the Feckler farm where Olaf Larson has lived the past two years. We extend a hearty welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Schlect who seem to be very pleasant people.

Mrs. Geo. Leete, of Kensal enjoyed a visit from her aunt, Mrs. Thos. Moran, of Winona last week.

A traction engine is doing good work plowing on the Feckler farm this season.

Olaf Laarson and family are soon to move on to the Bellgard farm owned by Andrew Forsberg.

R. H. Koves spent last Monday in Kensal.

Mrs. Faenrich, of Kensal, is spending some time with her parents.

Miss Lucy Hammerstedt, of Courtenay, spent the week's end at the parental home, returning to her studies at the high school Monday.
