

While delivering milk last Sunday morning, R. H. Reid's horse took a notion to make a start for home a little ahead of time. George Berg, who happened to see the horse make a dash for freedom or—his accustomed stall, gave pursuit and the horse not being as fleet-footed as at the time it cast its first vote for president, was soon overtaken and save for the spilling of some of the precious white liquid no damage was done.