

Miss Alice Tucker, the little eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Tucker, was taken to Rochester, Minn., upon the advice of their physician, Dr. Sansing, to have an operation for appendicitis performed. The little girl had been ailing only a short time until pronounced symptoms of the disease were evident and it was apparent that an operation was necessary to save the child's life. No report has yet been received of her present condition but hopes are entertained for the best.
