

It's a girl and weighs seven pounds. That's the way J. E. Miller greeted the writer when we met him on Sunday. It arrived Sunday morning and all concerned are doing well, and J. E. is happier than the farmer whose wheat is yielding thirty bushels to the acre.