

Henry Holliday, Mrs. James Shaner's father, who has been visiting her since July, and who accompanied her on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. O. E. Norell, the first of the week, left for his home at Oil City, Pennsylvania, Tuesday evening. Mr. Holliday is now in his seventy-eighth year and is as young and spry as a good many men who have not seen half his years. He has been actively engaged in farming until the last three years and is now taking life a little easier than formerly. This is the first time he had ever been outside of the state of Pennsylvania and to say that he enjoyed his visit to this state is but to put it mildly. He really had no idea of the immensity of this state until he saw it, and even then it was hard for him to realize the great possibilities that are stored up in these broad acres. It was a great revelation to him and he saw enough to keep him telling about it for several months.
