

entirely well.

We were in error in our issue of last week when we stated that Hans O'Lien spent the night before his death in Courtenay. He went home Friday evening and was returning to town on Saturday when the accident occurred which resulted in his death.