✓ Mrs. Will H. Carleton took a dose of some kind of poison put in a prescription by mistake last Thursday evening, that came pretty near winding up her earthly career. As there seems to be a difference of opinion in regard to the matter and the COURIER scribe does not know just how it happened, we do not care to talk any more than to say that she is all right again. Mrs. Carleton's many friends are glad to learn that it did not turn out any worse.
