

---

J. S. Byington experienced a runaway coming to town Wednesday. The bolt that connects the whiffletree with the singletree broke and let the rigging down on the heels of his horses, which of course frightened them and away they went, dragging J. S. over the dashboard of his sleigh and using him for a kind of a springtooth harrow. He escaped any serious injury but received a jolting so to speak.