

---

Gladys Stone fell from a second story window in the Palace Hotel Sunday night—a distance of fifteen feet from the ground—and escaped without injury, with the exception of a good jarring. Probably not one in a hundred would experience a like fall without severe injury and we are very much pleased to know that little Gladys escaped so miraculously.

---