

F. A. Mayer received a telegram from Wimbledon last Friday stating that his brother, Chris Mayer, was dead. Liveryman Biorn drove Fred over to Wimbledon the same afternoon. It appears that Chris complained of his head hurting him and went home to bed and died in three hours. The bursting of a blood vessel in his head, clogging the brain, is said to be the cause of his death. The deceased leaves a wife and two children. He was partner of A. L. Bowden in the general merchandise business and was popular with everybody. The many friends of the bereaved family in Cooperstown extend sympathy in this hour of their affliction.
