

In the debate between the University of North Dakota and the University of Manitoba, on the question, "Resolved, that the responsible cabinet form of government is better for the United States and Canada, than the presidential form." held last Friday evening, the affirmative, upheld by North Dakota, won. Edgar Gustafson was one of the debaters for the University of North Dakota.