

August Palm had the dangerous experience of having his auto collide with the southbound passenger train Monday. He drove onto the crossing near the Mercantile Store just as the train pulled in, and was unable to get off the track in time. The train was coming so slow, that it merely pushed the car off the track, damaging it to some extent, but its occupants escaped unharmed.