—The lecture, "What Ails This Country," delivered by Rev. S. N. Griffith, of Larimore, at the Arcade Hall last evening, was very interesting and instructive. The hall was comfortably filled. The lecturer told in plain language just what was the matter with this country, there was not enough of diversified farming and that "gentleman" farming did not pay. What was wanted is that everyone should raise as much as possible of what he consumes. The talk contained good advice for everyone, and we doubt not but many will profit from his advice.
