—One Adolf Linke, a young German who has been working as a farm laborer in this vicinity for some months, and who was discharged Wednesday by Mr. Davie, living near Colgate, while in town on that evening, developed every symptom of insanity, first going into the barber shop of Marion Presley during his absence, and literally tearing everything to pieces, and later acting upon the street like a mad man. He was taken in charge that evening by the town marshal and locked up in a box car. He was tried before the board of insanity yesterday morning, who declared him insane, and he was sent to Jamestown on the same day to the asylum, in charge of Ben Walden and the sheriff, S. L. Linn.
