

---

—Wm. Spooner departed for Minneapolis yesterday, where he goes to have his right eye operated upon. Something like a cataract has grown over the sight of the eye, totally destroying the sight. His friends will hope that the operation may be entirely successful and that he may return shortly with the sight entirely recovered.

---