—The wheat market has taken a great tumble since last week, No. 1 hard having fallen eleven cents, and the other grades nine cents each. If the farmers would hold on to their grain until it was in better condition for market, they would realize a much better price for it. The grain which is now being shipped has much to do with depressing the market, as it is not in any condition to store, being wet and soft. Farmers, hold on to your grain a little longer. It will pay you.
