

impressive one, and the remarks of the minister were peculiarly appropriate.

After the ceremony and the congratulatory greetings the company sat down to and discussed a most bountiful and toothsome spread.

Instead of making a bridal tour, the sensible young couple repaired, the same evening, to the house just vacated on Third street by the groom's parents, and immediately began house-keeping on their own account, where they are now at home to all their friends.

The high contracting parties have grown up in this village; they are known to every resident, and, it is needless to add, have the best wishes of all.

The marriage took place at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Jaberg in the north suburbs, and was witnessed by relatives of the families and a limited number of friends.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful presents, many of which came from friends in other parts.
