

---

A short time since the Enterprise noted that four young men, allured by highly colored promises of the boomers of Western Canada, had started for the Northwest Territories to begin life anew in that earthly Eden. A few weeks passed, and now all four young men are back in North Dakota, the land of plenty. Stand by North Dakota. There is no better country.

---