

Last Friday while at Melville with the rest of the family, little David Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Brown, had two fingers of one hand caught in the gearing of a cream separator, the ends of both being badly lacerated. He was taken at once to a doctor at Kensal, who dressed the wounds. It is believed they will heal without leaving any permanent disfiguration. Also, on Wednesday, the older son, Eugene, fell and struck his head on a stone, cutting a deep gash which necessitated the attention of a physician.
