

A M Hewson, postmaster at Wimbledon, whose present term expires April 23, has been re-appointed for another term of four years. A civil service examination for that office had been announced but it was called off as the post office department considered it best to retain Mr Hewson as postmaster in that town. His friends in this community will be pleased to know that his services are held in such high esteem by Uncle Sam. The appointment also means that the usual summer services in the Methodist here may continue without any change.
