

Last Wednesday night at Brantford Peter Krei, station agent, and four of his children were burned by the explosion of a gas lamp, the children fatally, and the father so badly that for a time it was not known whether he would recover.