

Our oil promoters suffered a severe setback when the high wind Monday night blew down the oil derrick west of Glenfield, completely wrecking the structure. This will mean a delay of several weeks before drilling can start, as a new derrick will have to be built.