

It was reported Wednesday that the first trace of oil had been found in the Glenfield well at 2400 feet. Work is going on rapidly now, and interest in the project has increased considerably.