

Orion Rhodes experienced a rather unusual mishap with his new truck Monday. He had driven onto the St. Anthony scales with a 163 bushel load of wheat, seven and one-half tons including truck, but as the scales were not of a sufficient capacity he started to drive off and weigh at the Minnekota elevator. In doing so the truck broke through the driveway, dropping about four feet. The drive shaft on the truck was bent and some other parts damaged, but he soon had everything repaired and going again.
