

William M. Westley

This week the Reporter is publishing a professional card for William M. Westley of Cooperstown. He has announced himself candidate for states attorney also.

Mr. Westley was born and raised in Griggs county, near Hannaford. He graduated from Jamestown college several years ago, and then became a teacher, using this as a means of paying his way through law school at the university of North Dakota and at Chicago. He held the position of superintendent three years, last year having charge of a high school of 69 students.

Mr. Westley was admitted to the bar early this winter, one of six successful candidates of a group of eleven examined. He opened an office in Cooperstown shortly after

He has had considerable public experience, addressed several P. T. A. meetings in the county and is to deliver some commencement addresses.

His present age is 27, and if elected, 28 at the time of taking office.
