

W. A. Adams returned Monday from Kansas City, where he spent the winter in an automobile school. He says that his sojourn of two winters in the south has spoiled him, and that he doesn't intend to endure any more of North Dakota's frigid blasts.

---