

C. E. Kjelson received a message last week from his son, Clarence, saying that he was sailing for home and would soon be landed on American soil.