

C. E. Kjelson received a letter last week from his son, Clarence saying that he had been transferred from Germany to France, where he was being given a four weeks course in a training school.