

Roy Wagoner has a cow that took it into her head several days ago to go on a little toot just for the fun of the thing, but it was a radiator anti-freeze mixture consisting of wood alcohol and water, and not nitre, that she chose as the vehicle for her jag. Roy had drained the contents of the radiator into a three gallon pail, and when he disappeared, Bossy politely helped herself to the whole works. It didn't kill her, but she is doubtless a sadder and wiser cow today.