

DOVER

(Too late for last week.)

The little son of Mike Riley has recovered from his recent severe illness.

Little Vincent Kribbs, who has been ailing for some time, is better, though not entirely well.

Mr. and Mrs. D. O. White and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Smith, spent several days last week in Jamestown.

The Dover Union S. S. is still in a flourishing condition and will continue to be until prevented by blizzards, with Rev. Fry as leader. He is peculiarly fitted for the work and deserves great credit for the interest manifested in our Sunday school by its pupils, which for many previous years could not be sustained for any length of time, if secured at all.

Miss Tena Baum expects to go to Jamestown this week where she will remain during the winter.

Dover is humming with threshing machines this week, as near as a half dozen can be counted within a few miles of each other, and she is pretty well aware that the year's income is much below the estimate at harvest time. Said estimate was in many cases out of the bounds of reason, and due to the inability to remember the hot winds and drouth which were un-
" severe in this locality.
