

---

H. A. Hammersteadt received the news by telegram last week that his half-brother, Carl Seidler, died while being operated on for cancer. Owing to the bad weather and uncertainty of trains at this time, he did not try to make the long journey east as he would probably have arrived too late to attend the funeral.

---