Celebrated Twentieth Wedding Anniversary

Last Monday evening a goodly company of fifty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Moffett to help them celebrate their twentieth wedding anniversary.

W. F. was not advised of the plans for the evening. He laid out a big piece of work and it took the arrival of several of the company before he "tumbled" and could be induced to leave his big job. Soon the large rooms were filled with guests. Hosts and guests were in a genial mood and, needless to add, the evening was a pleasant one. Singing, readings and general visiting took the greater part of the evening.

Toward the close Mr. R. C. Lovelace, in a happy speech in behalf of the guests, presented the gift to bride and groom. The gift in question is a six piece set of cut glass of the very finest variety.

An elaborate supper was served by the hostess after which the company reluctantly broke up, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Moffett many happy returns of the day.
