

Back Home Again

Henry Larson, who left last December for a trip to his old home in Norway, returned here last week after an absence of seven months.

He had a most pleasant visit and saw many different scenes that reminded him of his childhood days. He spent a large share of his time on the water fishing, which is one of the great pasttimes in that country.

On his return he had the pleasure of traveling on a new ship which was making its first trip. Although Mr. Larson thoroughly enjoyed the time spent in that country, he says he was glad to get back to Courtenay, where he has spent 24 years of his life.