

Homer Postlewaite, wife and son, left Wednesday evening for St. Paul. In another article, published elsewhere, we told of Mr. Postlewaite accepting a position on the road, not knowing at the time the nature of the position. He has landed a fine place, that of bank examiner. Such positions are hard to land, but in Mr. Postlewaite they have picked a man of ability and one well qualified for the place. He will have the western part of Minnesota for his territory. We sympathize with the community for the loss of these people, but join with their many friends in wishing them happiness in their new home.
